DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35.U.S.C. § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1751

4. Claims 10-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Brouwer et al (6,080,711).

Brouwer et al disclose a powder detergent composition and making thereof comprising 1 to 90% by weight of a detergent surfactant (col. 5, lines 27-38) and mixtures thereof of anionic surfactants such as alkyl sulfates and olefin sulfonates (col. 10, lines 22-64 and col. 11, lines 32-43). See table 9 and claim 1.

Brouwer et al is silent with respect to the process of making the olefin sulfonates, however, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to produce an olefin sulfonate having 10-20 carbon atoms from an alkane sulfonate and hydroxyalkane sulfonate under normal conditions, absent a showing to the contrary. Furthermore, it has been held that "The Patent Office bears a lesser burden of proof in making out a case of prima facie obviousness for product-by-process claims because of their peculiar nature" than when a product is claimed in the conventional fashion. In re Fessmann, 489 F.2d 742, 744, 180 USPQ 324, 326 (CCPA 1974). Once the examiner provides a rationale tending to show that the claimed product appears to be the same or similar to that of the prior art, although produced by a different process, the burden shifts to applicant to come forward with evidence establishing an unobvious difference between the claimed product and the prior art product. In re Marosi, 710 F.2d 798, 802, 218 USPQ 289, 292 (Fed. Cir.1983).

5. Claims 16-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Okumura et al (4,140,657).

Okumura et al disclose a granular detergent composition comprising a mixture of olefin sulfonate, alkyl sulfate and alkyl ether sulfate (col. 1, line 65-col. 2, line 16). Okumura et al teach that said olefin sulfonate comprises 12-18 carbon atoms (col. 3, lines 18-24) and said mixtures comprise 20-40% by weight of the composition (abstract).

Okumura et al is silent with respect to the process of making the granular detergent compositions, however, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to produce a granular detergent comprising an olefin sulfonate and an alkyl sulfate and granulating said mixtures to obtain the claimed invention, because each of the components are taught and the composition of Okumura et al is in granular form. Therefore, the artisan of ordinary skill would expect the composition to be prepared in a similar manner of the claimed invention, absent a showing to the contrary.
